His sistersand Mrs. Olive Perry Maupin of Vicksburg, Miss., charged that at the time he did so, Walker was "wholly mentally incompetent to execute a will." They wish to admit to probate an earlier will which named them his beneficiaries. Mrs. Smith met Walker 12 years ago when he began taking his two daily meals in the coffee shop in which she worked. Walker was a permanent resident of the hotel. She said she knew that he was a lonely man and tried to do "little things" for him, such as seeing that he got plenty of white meat when he ordered chicken and being sure that his bacon was crisp. About 10 years ago Mrs. Smith invited Walker to her home for Christmas dinner. After that he spent every Thanksgiving and Christmas and most Sundays with Mrs. Smith, her husband and daughter, now 15. In the last year, Mrs. Smith said, Walker had been too ill to go to her

Oldsters Right in Saying World Is Getting Warmer

LONDON, ENGLAND .- Old people are always saying that the world is not the same as when they were young. They're right, for the climate is getting warmer. Not only has the climate got warmer since the time of our grandparents, but it has got markedly warmer during the last 20 years. This does not mean that the summers are hotter, or that there is less rain, but it does mean that, on the average, the winters are much milder than they used to be This is true throughout the world. The Sahara continually increases in size. The lakes of Africa get drier and drier. The glaciers in Norway, Africa and America are in retreat. Even the codfish is moving farther and farther north and is now a major source of food in southwest Greenland, where it was almost unknown 20 years ago. There are many ways in which cientists can study climate, both in the past and in the present. For example, when glaciers retreat they leave records behind them in the shape, type, texture and size of the soil and stones. They also cut out valleys from the mountains and lateaus so that we can easily trace where these glaciers used to be. and social historians.
